DPWH, contractor face raps over Ungka flyover fiasco

BY VINCENT P. GRECIA

PRESSURE is mounting to find who is accountable for the construction of the PhP 680 million Ungka Flyover which has been rendered “useless” due to the “sinking” of its piers.

Aside from earlier calls for legislative investigations both in the lower and upper houses of Congress, several complaints have been lodged at the Office of the Ombudsman by certain groups.

Iloilo City Councilor Plaridel Nava and his group trooped to the Ombudsman Visayas office in Iloilo City to file charges against former Department of Public Works

Iloilo launches P30-M hybrid rice seeds program

Part of the collaboration under the Province-Led Agriculture and Fisheries Extension Systems (PAFES), the Iloilo Provincial Government launched the PhP30-million hybrid rice seed program to cater to more than 6,000 hectares of rice areas in the province no longer included in the target sites of the Department of Agriculture (DA) Western Visayas hybridization program this year.

Iloilo Governor Arthur R. Defensor Jr. spearheaded the launching and pilot distribution of 309 bags at 15-kilogram per bag hybrid seeds to more than 300 farmers in the Municipality of San Miguel on June 2.

and Highways (DPWH) 6 regional director Tiburcio Canlas; incumbent DPWH 6 regional director Engr. Nerie Bueno; Assistant Regional Director Engr. Jose Al Fruto; Project Engr. Ormel Santos; and contractor International Builders Corporation (IBC) officials Helen Edith Lee Tan, Allen Son Tan and several John Does.

Charges of Gross Neglect of Duty, Grave Misconduct, kag Conduct Prejudicial to the Best Interest of Public Service were filed by Nava and company which was supported by cause-oriented groups.

Lawyer and former Iloilo City councilor Eldrid Antiquera also wrote a letter to Office of the Ombudsman asking for an investigation on the anomalies surrounding the Ungka Flyover.

Antiquera told the media that he wanted the Ombudsman to push the DPWH 6 to release its documents in relation to the Ungka flyover project, which sits on the border between Iloilo City and Pavia, Iloilo.

Meanwhile, the United Filipino Consumers and Commuters (UFCC) led by Consumer Rights advocate Rodolfo Javellana Jr. released a manifesto joining public clamor for accountability relative to the defective project.

UFCC pointed that the problem could be traced to the Bureau of Designs of the Department of Public Works & Highways (DPWH) Central Office and the United Technology Consolidated Partnership (UTCP), the firm commissioned to do the design and conduct of soil testing.

DPWH Regional Office 6 were "merely" handed the Final Design then tasked to do the bidding, construction oversight and quality control, it said.

"Congress should heed the call of the People of Iloilo to look into the accountability of DPWH Central Office for approving the faulty design of the Ungka Flyover which is sinking based on the findings of third-party consultant..."

"...the geotechnical consultancy firm commissioned by the DPWH central office to design the flyover that was based on their soil-testing should be questioned by lawmakers for the faulty design which the Central Office cascaded to DPWH in Region 6 for implementation," excerpts of the manifesto reads.

UFCC added: "...it was clearly not part of the scope of work of the local contractor (International Builders Corporation) to conduct soil testing as it was already accomplished by the UTCP."

Former Senator Franklin Drilon, who initiated the project before his term ended, admitted that he was disappointed by the project's outcome.

Ungka Flyover and Aganan Flyover in Pavia were constructed with the intention of shortening travel time to the Iloilo Airport and the central part of Iloilo province.

"Of course I'll be telling a lie if I say I'm not disappointed, I'm disappointed. But these things happen and not only here but in other projects of government but we take it as part of doing these projects you cannot have a perfect situation, what's important is that you are able to recover from whatever shortcomings there are," Drilon said.

The construction of the PhP 820 million Aganan Flyover, which is about two kilometers away from the Ungka flyover, was stopped following the discovery of the "defects" in the Ungka Flyover.

programs and projects to the public.

"Our programs and projects reach our people because of your help... that is why our regular press conferences are very important because it is a venue where I can communicate to our people about what we do here in the provincial government," Gov. Defensor said.

He also acknowledged the role of media in the achievement of his administration's development goals under his program MoRProGRes Iloilo or Movement for a Robust, Progressive, Globally-competitive, and Resilient Province of Iloilo.

"We are pushing for the hybridization program to improve our current average yield of 4.5 metric tons per hectare of palay even before the completion of the biggest dam project outside Luzon, the Jalaur River Multi-Purpose Project II," said Governor Defensor.

In the previous year, only seven towns in Iloilo, including Ajuy, Dumangas, Pavia, Mina, New Lucena, Barotac Nuevo, and Banate, with above five metric tons per hectare average yield, had benefitted from the Department's 45,000 bags of hybrid seeds. However, in 2023, only 800 hectares of rice areas in Banate, Dumangas, and Pototan are targeted for hybridization under the DA's Masagana Program and 100 hectares as demo farm.

The Office of the Provincial Agriculture (OPA) Iloilo funded the Hybrid Rice Production Support Program under the PAFES following the significant reduction in the DA's budget for hybrid rice seed interventions. The move intends to sustain and improve the province's production volume and yield performance in palay production

Each farmer could receive one bag (at 15 kilograms per bag) of hybrid seeds for every hectare of rice land. However, a farmer could only avail of a maximum of two bags.

Governor Defensor assured farmers that the Iloilo PLGU's priority programs under PAFES will further advance the rice self-sufficiency of Iloilo.

"Kung sa konsumo lang, bastante kita sa palay. Pero kulang kita sa buffer ukon reserved stocks. Damo pa nga bahin sang pagpanguma sang humay ang gusto naton pasanyugon. Ang rasun kung ngaa ginaduso namon ang hybridization program. Ang indi mapuno sang DA sa hybridization, buligan naton," said Governor Defensor, who also cited that the PLGU has Anona replaced Elena "Bing" Pabiona of Radyo Pilipinas who served as IPCPC president for 13 years.

Anona thanked the IPCPC members for entrusting to him the "big responsibility" of leading the organization. He vowed to continue what his predecessor has started and continue to make the IPCPC a valuable partner of the Iloilo provincial government.

Also present in the oath-taking ceremony were Provincial Administrator Raul Baniyas, Provincial Legal Officer Atty. Dennis Ventilacion, former broadcaster now Sangguniang Bayan Member of Miagao Richard Esposito and some provincial government department heads.

earmarked P20-million for the construction of small-scale irrigation projects in different municipalities this year.

Meanwhile, Iloilo provincial agriculturist Dr. Ildefonso Toledo said that with the Governor's thrust that centers on transforming ordinary and traditional into optimal and centralized agri-fishery-related enterprises and systems (TOTO CARES), hybrid rice farmers in Iloilo could compete with farmers from other Asian countries should they adopt the PalayCheck System and use high-quality seeds when producing rice.

Toledo also cited the high-yielding traits of hybrid rice that will provide farmers with at least five metric tons per hectare average yield despite the unfavorable climatic condition directly affecting the palay output.

"We want to appeal to farmers to make farming a profitable and sustainable business. These hybrid seeds we are distributing are of high quality as cultivated in other top rice-producing areas. If coupled with best cultural management practices and favorable climate, hybrid rice farming could yield 10 metric tons per hectare or more," said Toledo.

Aside from San Miguel, the OPA Iloilo also allocates 470 bags for Barotac Viejo, 891 bags for Dumangas, 970-Pototan, and Tigbauan with 360 bags of hybrid rice for planting this year.

To note, Iloilo has a total of 45,000 hectares of potential areas for hybrid rice cultivation.

Also present in the pilot distribution were 2nd District Board Members Rolito Cajilig and Jun Mondejar, as well as DA Western Visayas' APCO for Iloilo Gareth Bayate and Regional Seed Coordinator Elmer Cabusas, and other program implementers from OPA-Iloilo. (SMHToreno/DA-RAFIS 6)

Mayor bats for more flights to Iloilo City

ILOILO CITY – Mayor Jerry Treñas will request additional flights to and from Iloilo International Airport in Cabatuan town to cut the cost of plane tickets.

"The airplane fares have become very expensive. We need more flights to and from Iloilo City to lower the plane fares and make them more affordable for everyone," said Treñas on Wednesday, adding the letter is being finalized.

He will also lobby anew in his letter for the resumption of the Iloilo to Hong Kong and Iloilo to Singapore flights in response to requests of Ilonggos working in these areas.

"It's a welcome move. The move of the mayor is good for us, good for the economy, good for the airport," said Iloilo Terminal Supervisor Art Parreño in a separate interview.

The airport currently serves Philippine Airlines, Cebu

Pacific, and Air Asia, Parreño said for the month of June there were 19 daily flights and 20 scheduled flights on different days of the week in various destinations.

He added that despite the airport being busy, it will still be able to accommodate more flights.

However, he said the increase in frequency would mean additional personnel and utilities.

"We are open to the increase in flights but CAAP (Civil Aviation Authority of the Philippines) does not decide, it's the airline's decision," he said.

The Iloilo airport serves daily flights to Manila and Cebu and scheduled flights for General Santos, Davao and Clark.

Starting this month, there will be additional scheduled flights going to Palawan and Cagayan de Oro. (PNA)

DPWH completes Calinog flood control project

Securing the safety of local communities against water overflow, the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH) Iloilo 2nd District Engineering Office (DEO) has completed a flood control project along the Jalaur River in Barangay Delgado (Gamma Grande).

The Php 34.3-million project, funded under the FY 2022 General Appropriations Act (GAA), spans 290 linear meters to address the persistent issue of sudden water rise during heavy rains, which often results to severe flooding affecting flood-prone communities.

Citing from the report District Engineer Allan Rey R. Pajimna, Regional Director Nerie D. Bueno emphasized the project's crucial role in protecting communities from natural disasters and mitigating damages caused by rapid water overflows.

"The flood control project along Jalaur River in Calinog plays an important role in protecting communities from natural disasters while mitigating damages that may be caused by rapid water overflows," Director Bueno stated.

"Its design serves as a catch basin for waters coming from the mountains and can withstand the unexpected flow of floodwater," added RD Bueno.

The completion of the flood control project brings relief to residents of Barangay Delgado, who experienced from the devastating effects of frequent flooding for many years.

Furthermore, the project aims to enhance the community's resilience against heavy rainfall and ensure residents' safety during extreme weather conditions.

District Engineer Pajimna expressed gratitude to the local community for their cooperation and patience throughout the project. He emphasized that the successful completion of the flood control project was a collective effort and a testament to the strong partnership between DPWH Iloilo 2nd DEO and the community it serves.

With the project's completion, the residents will be protected and secured, knowing their community is better equipped to withstand heavy rains and rising water levels.

The successful implementation of the flood control project underscores the Department's dedication to ensuring the safety and well-being of its people in the face of environmental challenges. (DPWH-VI)

'Be gentle with yourself'

Today's title and subject came as a thought, perhaps a reminder, maybe even a stern warning: "Be gentle with yourself."

In the past couple of years, I have made a conscious effort to keep my mind and senses open to the leading, words, thoughts that I attribute to God and I have greatly benefitted from the countless times when I listened and moved where directed and lately, what I have observed is that people have been dwelling on medical diagnosis on social media.

Blame it on Dr. Google but more and more people have been thinking and talking about "mental health," anxiety and, perhaps because of my age group, Alzheimer's, which in reality is just all about forgetfulness with age and not the dreaded disease half of us can't spell on the first try.

Whether it's about an elderly parent or a spouse, people worry. A friend recently shared his concern that his wife may not have it all together anymore. So, I asked what exactly changed. He said that his wife could no longer deal with being around a lot of people and so they stopped inviting guests or going to parties and family gatherings.

I sympathized with my elderly friend and told him that he might have read his tea leaves wrong. Lest we forget, senior citizens and children are the two populations that were the most affected by the forced confinement called "lockdown." As necessary and protective in nature they might have been, the fact is senior citizens were practically targeted and excluded from mingling with the general population.

Aside from the forced isolation, they were also deprived, robbed or relieved of their decision-making powers and position of leadership in families. By a simple declaration of government, they were classified as high risk, endangered, practically incapable of caring or looking out for themselves. We were robbed of our independence.

After months upon months of such deprivation and isolation, one does not simply go back out and act normal! In case we've all forgotten, there is the term we all learned in college called "culture shock." I experienced this, three times in my life; the first was when I lived for over a month with fisherfolk while writing a paper for an elective subject.

After that brief but deep immersion, I returned to UP and in a matter of weeks I got into a brawl after someone kept taunting me and making fun of me all night. Under "normal" circumstances I would have gone tit-for-tat annoying the person, but my immersion changed my mindset and triggered the wrong response.

The second time was when I moved to the US and after five months found myself floating and floundering and confused in my interactions with the natives. I always assumed that my exposure to many things US had prepared me for the real thing, but I was wrong and only after my friend's wife said the words "culture shock" did I realize the fact.

The third instance was after all the COVID restrictions had been lifted and my wife and I started to attend necessary events such as a funeral, a wedding, etc. As long as I kept my distance from groups, I was fine, but when people started to come up or rush forward, I instinctively turned to the side or stepped back. I had no problem talking to the camera for two years but face-to-face or crowds was weird!

It was the strangest feeling ever. It was like relearning how to walk after being bed-ridden. I could talk one-on-one but when a group started to form, I started to get defensive or evasive. Of course, it all had to do with the lockdowns and that was what I told my friend concerning his wife.

I suggested that they try a different approach. Engage with fewer persons at a time. Family reunions and screaming grand kids are stressful on ordinary occasions, imagine how it feels to someone coming out of isolation. Invite a son and his wife, or maybe a couple you really enjoy and feel relaxed with.

CTALK

Cito Beltran

Don't ever jump to conclusions based on something you just read on Facebook or asked Dr. Google! A few months ago, I found myself experiencing mood swings that were out of the ordinary. Some of my friends even asked why I suddenly soured even before the party started? After blood tests I discovered that my sugar level had gone down on those occasions and once I have a glass of soda or something sweet, my disposition enchantedly transforms. We ain't like we used to be!

Someone else had a different behavior pre-COVID and post-COVID. Pre-COVID the lady would be charming, polite and pleasant. She, however, was selective with whom she spoke and only on topics of personal interest. Coming out of COVID, the lady took part in almost all conversations, engaged anyone on the topic at hand and on occasion spoke at great length to the point of being chatty or dominating the floor without meaning to or unaware that she was doing so.

After some time, the lady came to realize that it was the ill effects of COVID lockdowns during which she also missed out on the social interactions and being with many friends. Once she realized this, the lady has since started to be more aware and has reconnected with different persons, associations and groups to catch up on the human connections more than the chatter.

Going back to today's title which comes from Considerata, the previous text teaches us:

"Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with dark imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself."

Masagana redux

Eclipsed by the controversy over the Maharlika Investment Fund was another "Marcos rehabilitation" program of Ferdinand Junior: Masagana 99 redux, launched on May 31 as the Masagana Rice Industry Development Program.

The goal of the program, according to President Marcos, is 97.5 percent rice sufficiency by the time his term ends in 2028. The 97.5 percent, he said, "is a good enough number" instead of 100 percent because what will still be imported are "niche products" such as specialty rice.

Ferdinand Marcos the elder launched Masagana 99 in 1973 alongside extensive land reform and credit access to farmers. The program used rice production technologies developed by the International Rice Research Institute in Los Baños to boost the harvest.

There is disagreement on the results of Masagana 99. A prevailing assessment is that it had both good and bad results. Among the negatives: the lack of sustained farm support led to many farmers defaulting on their loans and selling their rice lands, which in turn led to about 800 rural banks going bankrupt.

This time, we're hearing commitments again for farm support to make Masagana work. Whether the support will materialize and be sustained remains to be seen.

BBM wants to rehabilitate the Masagana name, alongside his effort to realize his campaign "aspiration" for rice at P20 a kilo.

The aspiration is a long way from attainment. About two weeks ago I bought my usual two-month supply of local well-milled rice from my suki wholesaler, and prices had gone up by P3 to P4 per kilo, ranging from P49 to P52.

Agriculture scientist Leocadio Sebastian, former director of the Philippine Rice Research Institute, says the P20-a-kilo rice must be market-driven rather than a subsidized price at the Kadiwa outlets, where rice is being sold at P25 a kilo.

Sebastian has been named undersecretary for rice industry development in the Department of Agriculture. It's his resurrection after his ignominious ouster as senior DA undersecretary over an aborted importation of sugar at the start of the Marcos 2.0 administration.

Sugar prices have remained sky-high, reportedly earning billions for the well-connected greedy cartel, so Sebastian must be feeling relieved that the commodity is no longer his responsibility.

On One News' "The Chiefs" last week, Sebastian observed wryly that while he distinguished himself in rice, "I became famous – or infamous – because of sugar. Iba talaga ang Pilipinas."

Considering his impressive credentials as a rice scientist, did he feel underappreciated? "Hindi naman. Siguro ganon lang talaga tayong mga Pilipino."

Sebastian remembers the days when agriculture players from other Asian countries went to the Philippines to study rice farming.

Working in Vietnam on climate-smart mapping and adaptation planning, he received in 2019 the Medal for Contribution to the Cause of Agriculture and Rural Development from that country's Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development.

This is the highest honor given by Hanoi to individuals, mostly foreigners; Sebastian received it for his contribution to rice production in Vietnam.

From teaching foreigners how to produce rice, the Philippines now imports a lot of rice from Vietnam and Thailand.

What did the two countries do right, and where did we go wrong?

Sebastian cites two reasons. One is failure to attain scale: Thais, Vietnamese, even Indonesians and Malaysians adopted rice technology they learned from the Philippines and scaled it up nationwide.

"We developed a lot of things, but small-scale," Sebastian noted. "Happy na tayo."

Second is the lack of long-term planning and consistency. Sebastian pointed out that Malaysia has a 10-year plan and five-year budgeting for national rice production; Vietnam has 10 to 12 years for planning and implementation.

In the Philippines, agricultural production plans change not only when there is a new president but even when there is a new secretary of agriculture, Sebastian lamented.

"We want solutions right away," he said.

Also, while the Philippines gives subsidies to farmers, he said the Thais focus on improving post-harvest facilities and the other parts of the value chain.

Unfortunately for Filipino farmers, official pronouncements to improve post-harvest facilities have largely failed to go beyond rhetoric.

Sebastian said the Masagana program aims to address these problems through a national development plan that will mobilize the private sector, including millers, rice traders and micro, small and medium enterprises involved in the industry.

"If we are to improve production, we also have to improve other parts of the value chain – something that other countries are doing," he said.

Apart from adjusting the rice planting calendar to maximize production, farmers will be encouraged to bring down costs by shifting to a balanced blend of organic, chemical and bio fertilizer. This can be done on a large scale, Sebastian said.

A farmers' cooperative has sold rice to Kadiwa at just P25 a kilo, he pointed out, because the members were able to bring down the cost of production to just P7 per kilo of palay, mainly by using bio fertilizer, which consists mostly of microorganisms. (This is different from organic fertilizers such as vermicompost.) Sebastian, however, says a balanced blend of fertilizers is needed to maximize production without harming the soil.

Weaning farmers from 100 percent urea or chemical fertilizer will also be inevitable down the line, he said, because such fertilizers, while providing high rice yield faster, are gradually eroding soil fertility.

"We want (the soil) to have a balanced diet," he said.

He acknowledged that synthetic fertilizer, which the country imports 100 percent (mostly from the Russia-Ukraine war theater) is a business and there is resistance to the introduction of more bio fertilizers in the mix.

"There are also vested interests that would like to protect their interests," he said. "But for sustainability, we cannot continue relying on synthetics."

Sebastian says rice self-sufficiency is possible, but he stresses that this should not be at the expense of small rice farmers. The overriding objective, he says, must be improving the income of farmers rather than merely giving them subsidies.

"Rice self-sufficiency is a good objective, but we have to be careful with the approach... to ensure that our farmers will not be at the losing end," he said. "It should be an outcome rather than the objective."

Taiwan strait concerns

Editorial

Yet again, the recent passage through the sensitive Taiwan Strait by navies of the United States and Canada in a joint mission have sent ripples of concern in all directions lapping against the shorelines of neighboring countries.

The waterway separates democratic self-ruled Taiwan by only 160 kilometers from China.

China claims Taiwan as its territory and has vowed to take it one day, by force if necessary, and has in recent years ramped up military and political pressure on the island.

Last week, the Chinese aircraft carrier Shandong led two other ships through the Taiwan Strait, in a show of force after Beijing conducted aerial and naval exercises around Taiwan in April.

The US 7th Fleet announced Saturday its destroyer USS Chung-Hoon and the Royal Canadian Navy's HMCS Montreal were "conducting a routine Taiwan Strait transit on June 3 "through waters where high-seas freedoms of navigation and overflight apply in accordance with international law."

According to the US Navy, "Chung-Hoon and Montreal's bilateral transit through the Taiwan Strait demonstrates the commitment of the United States and our allies and partners to a free and open Indo-Pacific."

While US naval ships frequently sail through the strait, the recent bilateral transit is rare – the last a joint US-Canada passage through the strait occurred was in September 2022.

On Sunday, China's defense minister defended sailing a warship across the path of an American destroyer and Canadian frigate transiting the Taiwan Strait, telling a gathering of some of the world's top defense officials in Singapore that such so-called "freedom of navigation" patrols are a provocation to China.

In his first international public address since becoming defense minister in March, Gen. Li Shangfu told the Shangri-La Dialogue that China doesn't have any problems with "innocent passage" but that "we must prevent attempts that try to use those freedom of navigation (patrols), that innocent passage, to exercise hegemony of navigation."

The Chinese vessel overtook the American ship and then veered across its bow at a distance of about 140 meters in an "unsafe manner," according to the US Indo-Pacific Command.

The US added a Chinese J-16 fighter jet late last month "performed an unnecessarily aggressive maneuver" while intercepting a US Air Force reconnaissance aircraft over the South China Sea, flying directly in front of the plane's nose.

Those and previous incidents have raised concerns of a possible accident occurring that could lead to an escalation between the two nations at a time when tensions are already high.

The US has noted that since 2021 – well before Li became defense minister – China has declined or failed to respond to more than a dozen requests from the US Defense Department to talk with senior leaders, as well as multiple requests for standing dialogues and working-level engagements.

Li said that "China is open to communications between our two countries and also between our two militaries," but said, without mentioning the sanctions, exchanges had to be "based on mutual respect." (manilastandard.net)

Bare minimum Mondays, quiet quitting, pushback of the youth

"If you do the bare minimum, expect bare minimum results. You want to be great, work to be great" – JJ Watt

A few days ago, I noticed a number of articles, both here and abroad, about a new trend among millennials and Generation Z called, "Bare Minimum Mondays". According to some, the idea of "Bare Minimum Mondays" is to start off the workweek slowly by prioritizing self-care over work duties on Monday putting in only a minimal effort toward your job on that day each week.

In 2022, a survey was done on the mental health of millennials and Generation Z. The results showed a very high level of stress and anxiety among the two generations. The report stated that half of Gen Zers and 40 percent of millennials were "stressed out or anxious all or most of the time" which has translated to difficulties in adapting to the world of work. 46 percent of Gen Zers and 45 percent of millennials felt burned out because of the demands of their work.

One such stressed millennial named Marissa Jo Mayes went viral with her struggles at work and came up with a solution called Bare Minimum Monday. Since then, her concept of easing into the work week by doing the bare minimum or needed work has garnered many supporters among the youth who feel they are stressed from too much work.

Bare Minimum Mondays is the latest trending term associated with the younger generations' "rebellion" on traditional work structure. Previously, terms like Sunday

Scaries (the anxiety people feel Sunday night before the start of the work week) and quiet quitting (doing one's job without going above and beyond) have been popular among the youth.

The idea of wanting to slow down and lessening workloads during a work week is not new. People have hated Mondays for centuries. Almost everyone has at one point or another thought of taking a "day off" when things get stressful but for us Gen X or even Boomers, however, we call it slacking off. Slacking off or taking the day off has always been an accepted remedy for stress. Slacking off, however, for the older generations is done only occasionally and quietly. The younger generation, on the other hand, are more vocal about the stress they feel and their solutions or terms for such stress imply an institutionalized or regular remedy that will probably upend the traditional work place.

These new trends, among others, have emphasized a growing divide among the older generation and the aforesaid younger ones insofar as the work culture is concerned. Older generation bosses who learn about this bare minimum concept, quiet quitting and the statistics on youth stress see it as an affirmation of their low opinion on the lack of grit and improper work attitude of the younger generation. The younger generation, on the other hand, feel that they are always misunderstood by their elders. The younger ones have even coined a phrase whenever a debate between the generations occur – "OK boomer". It is a phrase meant to cut off further debate and to show

OBLIQUE OBSERVATIONS

By ATTY. GILBERTO LAUENCO, J.D.

the younger ones' exasperation.

The concept of slowing down and not stepping on the gas pedal on Mondays might have its merits. Unfortunately, in a generally conservative work environment where work is sparse, practicing Bare Minimum Mondays regularly might adversely affect an employee's career or even get the said employee fired. For entrepreneurs, freelance artists, professionals, and managers the said practice might leave them vulnerable in a competitive environment. Traditional and extremely driven groups might take advantage of a competitor's avowed policy of a regular bare minimum day. There was a reason why the Japanese in World War II attacked the US base in Pearl Harbor on a Sunday when most of the US forces were taking the day off.

In the end, the idea of slowing down when stress levels go up is essentially a good one. Making this a habit or applying it institutionally in the present environment, however, might be problematic. Perhaps a more balanced approach can be tried.

This is my oblique observation.

Mga Panghuna-huna kag Paranan-awan

ni Dr. Romeo Felarca Detaro

Si Manny Pacquiao kag Si Boy Abunda

I
Sang sini lang nangin magahod sa kahanginan,
Mga tinaga nga naka-tublak sang mga LGBT naton nga mga kauturan,
Ang sadto anay topiko nga gina-palagyuhan,
Subong matunog nga gina-debatihan.

II
Sa bahin ni Pacquiao ayhan epekto na ini sang iya repormasyon, Matingas nga mga tinaga halin sa Bibliya ginabasa sang masusun,
Puro nga naga-dumili sang babaye kag babaye, okon sa lalake kag lalake nga relasyon,
Amo man ini kon nga-a madamo gid ang nahatag sang reaksyon.

III
Ang party-list nga Pro-Life, amo man ini ang adbokasiya,
Pag-dumili sang abortion kag pakig-hilawas sang lalaki okon babaye sa parehos niya nga tinuga,
Ini nga adbokasiya suportado sang aton Simbahan okon Iglesia, Apang nga-a pilit ini nga ginala-lis sang iban nga miyembro sang komunidad ta?

IV
Importante siguru ma-intiendihan, nakakinahanglan kita Dios, nga magahusga, kay kon ang aton lang nga mga tinuga, sin-o gid bala kita agud sa pag husga sa ila?
Dios lang gid ang nakahibalo sang matuod kag sala ila nga ubra.

Ah, kay ang gin-hambal ni Manny, kontra sang ila Pilosopiya.
Siling ni Boy Abunda, siya ay nasaktan,

Sila ay hindi makapaniwala na magagawa ni Manny na siya ay yurakan.

Kon ang pag-higugma mas subra pa sa sapat, mas maayo pa nga mangin sapat hambal niya,
Kon amo sini ang iya katapat.

VI
Gina-kumpara ni Boy Abunda ang pag-antus sang mga LGBT naton nga mga kauturan, Sa mga Negro kag kasaysayan kag ang eksperyensya sang sang mga kababaihan,
Sa malawig nga tinu-ig sang aton kasaysayan,
Gin-yaguta, gin-dingutan sang kahilwayan, apang sang sini lang amat-amat naman nga ginataha, ginasaligan.

Pagsalig sa mga LGBT community amo ini ang panagayo nila abyan,
Kay hambal nila may-ara indi apang ang iban Diosnon man, Sin-o si Manny Pacquiao nga mag-husga sa ila kon ano gid sila,

Kay madamo nga indi man gani LGBT, puno man gani sang kasal-anan, nga mas subra pa sa ila.

VIII
Singgitan sang mga LGBT naton nga mga kauturan,
Indi pag-husgahan kag kabigon sila nga mga kasapatan,
Ang pareho sa ila, dapat kabigon naman naton nga normal kag indi husgahan, Pareho sang indi Lesbian, Gay, Bi-sexual, Transgender naton nga mga kauturan, Kay silapareho man sa aton nga makakasala, pareho naton nga nilalang.

ILOILO CITY BUILDS BIGGER DIALYSIS CENTER

The Us wag Dialysis Center in Brgy. San Isidro, Jaro district, is soon to be operational and houses 15 dialysis machines that can accommodate 30 patients per day, and Covid isolation rooms.

The center will provide free services such as outpatient hemodialysis treatment to city residents who are battling chronic kidney diseases and save them from costly hospital fees.

This is one of the City Government's initiatives, as Mayor Jerry Treñas stressed that among the administration's priorities is to address the health needs of the people.

City Health Officer Dr. Anabelle Tang said CHO has yet to process the dialysis center's license to operate with the Department of Health (DOH) before it goes operational.

The City Government earlier opened its first Dialysis Center with three machines at the facility in Brgy. East Baluarte, Molo. (Iloilo City PIO)

IN RE: PETITION FOR CORRECTION OF ENTRIES IN THE RECORD OF BIRTH OF MICHELLE L. PELIGRES

MICHELLE L. PELIGRES,
Petitioner,

-versus-

THE LOCAL CIVIL REGISTRAR OF OTON, ILOILO, AND THE PHILIPPINE STATISTICS AUTHORITY.
Respondents.

X-----X

ORDER

Petitioner Michelle L. Peligres prays that after due notice, publication, and hearing judgment be rendered ordering respondents Local Civil Registrar of Oton, Iloilo and the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA):

- a.) to correct/change her first name from MICHILLE to MICHELLE; and
- b.) to correct/change her date of birth from November 14, 1970 to November 14, 1971

Petitioner was born on November 14, 1971 in Lopez Jaena St., Brgy. Poblacion East, Oton, Iloilo to parents Romulo Peligres and Remedios Langusta who are both deceased.

Sometime last year, the petitioner obtained a copy of her Certificate of Live Birth from the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) as her son was processing his requirement for his employment application abroad.

Upon inspection of said Certificate of Live Birth issued by the PSA, it was discovered that her year of birth was erroneously and inadvertently recorded as "1970" when it was supposed to be 1971. Likewise her first name was erroneously and inadvertently recorded as "MICHILLE" instead of "MICHELLE". These are supported by her Certificate of Baptism, Certification from her Elementary School and her High School Records.

It is imperative and necessary that corrections be made in the petitioner's Certificate of Live Birth with respect to her date of birth and her first name in order to conform to the truth and to correct any erroneous entries in the Office of the Local Civil Registrar of Oton, Iloilo, as well as the records forwarded to the Philippine Statistics Authority.

Finding the petition to be sufficient in form and substance, petitioner is directed to furnish a copy of the petition to the Local Civil Registrar of Oton, Iloilo, the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA), and the Office of the Solicitor General who may file an opposition, giving reason why the petition shall not be granted, before the scheduled hearing.

Let this Order be published once a week for three (3) consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the city and province of Iloilo.

Furnish a copy of this Order to the petitioner and her counsel, Local Civil Registrar of Oton, Iloilo, the Philippine Statistics Authority, Quezon City and the Office of the Solicitor General.

Set the merit of the petition on September 12, 2023 at 8:30 in the morning.

SO ORDERED
